The Exhibition a Very Great Success.

The interest displayed in the Art League by the artistic element of Norfolk, and those who love art, is fast assuming proportions numerically that will make this organization the largest in membership of any Art League in the South, Already there are 200 names enrolled, both honorary and active members, and applications for membership are coming in each week. Art appeals to those of refined taste and just discrimination is the result of education, and that the people of Norfolk take an interest in the young League is but one more example of the liberal spirit that prevails in the city, which has always stood among the first in the country for culture and cultivation. The summer months which are near will cause the classes, which are daily attended by the members of the League to closs. But in September they will begin again, and accommodations for the increasing membership will be made, so that no member of the League will be debarred from entering any class de debarred from entering any The interest displayed in the debarred from entering any class de sired. The class in China will continue a few weeks longer, and the League's rooms in the Haddington will remain open each day and evening as hereto-fore. The exhibition which has just closed was an unqualified success. It paid all expenses, aroused art sentiment in the community, demonstrated what Norfolk could do, and as an educational effort, accomplished great results. The fall exhibition will be on a much greater scale and will be the largest affair of the kind ever given in the South. BERKLEY BRIEFS.

FOR HIS COUNTRY. Secretary Carlisle, Though a Splendid

Financier, Is a Poor Man. At a small town up in the mountains the train stopped. Secretary Carlisle stepped out upon the platform and paced up and down. The loiterers eyed him curiously. "Is that Mr. Carlisle, the great financier?" asked one of them.

"Yes," I answered.
"He is one of the greatest financiers in this hull world, ain't he?" "That is what he is." "Gosh, but he must be a rich man. "No. Mr. Carlisle is a poor man. He isn't worth $1,000 to his name above his debts. He is getting poorer all the time.'

"Say, mister," retorted the mountaineer, "do you call that good financiering?"
"No, it is not good financiering," I teplied, "not from Mr. Carlisle's stand-point and his family's standpoint. But cannot you conceive of a man who is big and generous and patriotic enough to forget himself, to get into the habit of forgetting himself in his desire to serve his country? Whether you can understand it or not, that is the kind of man Mr. Carlisle is. He has worked for the country so long that he feels he can do nothing else. It is his career, his life work, his second nature. You ca derstand a man who has preached the gospel for 30 years, getting a bare subsistence out of it, and who is suddenly offered a good salary to do something else and refuses it. He feels he mus stay by his work, the work that has had his brain, his heart and his best years. Well, that is Mr. Carlisle's case. He belongs to the tribe of unselfish public servants—professional public servants, if you like that phrase better. He is almost incapable of thinking of his own interests. He is giving his life to his country, just as much as any soldier that marched up and down the Shanan-doah valley back here, and who finally laid himself down to die by the banks of that stream." This may have been a trifle poetical. but the countryman nettled me with his grin when he thought he had knocked Mr. Carlisle and me out with one stone. Besides it was true. When Carlisle was in congress, fie had a little law practice with which to eke out his salary. It helped him to keep out of debt. His helped him to keep out of debt. His family wanted him to stay in the senate, because they knew he would have to give up his law practice, small as it was, when he went into the treasury. Ambi-tion, devotion to public service, or something, drove him into the cabinet, and he has been getting deeper into debt ever since. It is a curious commentary upon the miserable salaries paid our chief government officials that the man who controls the fiscal affairs of the govern-ment, $500,000,000 a year or thereabout, should have trouble in meeting his rent It is also a pretty good certificate to his honesty, if he needs one, and Mr. Car-lisle doesn't.—Special Cor. rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs and being well informed, you will sea and cept any substitute if offered.
